MONTEFIORE MEDICAL CENTER
AND
AFFILIATED FACILITIES
DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHIATRY AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES
GERIATRIC RESIDENCY TRAINING PROGRAM

Fellows are prepared for leadership positions in academia and public health institutions and for Board certification in the subspecialty of Geriatric Psychiatry. This is an ACGME accredited program with close ties to Montefiore's Fellowship Program in the Division of Geriatric Medicine.

Responsibilities for clinical services, case conferences, journal clubs and research are shared by faculty and fellows of the Geriatric Psychiatry and Geriatric Medicine Fellowship Training Programs.

The clinical experience occurs in the Psychiatric Outpatient Department, a Certified Home Health Care Agency, a Naturally Occurring Retirement Community, and includes consultation to medical inpatients, a teaching nursing home, and house calls to patients in the community. The didactic curriculum includes multi-profession seminars, case conferences, journal club and grand rounds. Supervision in pharmacotherapy, psychotherapy, research as well as administrative psychiatry is integral to the program's mission. Over the year fellows prepare one grand rounds presentation and multiple observed patient interviews which are evaluated by faculty and peers. Fellows may elect to receive protected time to pursue certificates of training in bioethics or ECT. Subsidized housing and meal tickets may also be provided.

Fellows have responsibilities for teaching and supervision of students and residents in medicine and psychiatry. Fellows are also directly involved in research with faculty.

RATIONALE AND GOALS OF THE DIVISION OF GERIATRIC PSYCHIATRY

- Recognition that a unique body of gerontological knowledge developed by the social, biological, and behavioral sciences has yet to be fully incorporated by the disciplines of internal medicine, family practice, neurology, and psychiatry.
- To influence health policy through the conduct of clinical investigation, community service, and public advocacy.
- To meet the public health mandate of a major medical school.
- To respond to the increasing number of older adults in need including disadvantaged minority and immigrant elders.
- To gain a greater share of public and philanthropic support for training, service, and research in mental health.
- To provide psychiatrists with special training in geriatrics for positions of leadership in the areas of clinical service, teaching and training, scientific study, administration, and public policy.
- To offer consultation and training to primary care physicians, general psychiatrists, and community agencies that provide mental health services to older Americans.

Training Program Director Biography

Dr. Kennedy is Professor and Vice Chair for Education of the Department Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences and Director, Division of Geriatric Psychiatry and the Geriatric Psychiatry Fellowship Training Program, Montefiore Medical Center, Albert Einstein College of Medicine. More than sixty psychiatrists with subspecialty training in geriatrics have graduated from the program. He has authored numerous publications on late life mental health and has given a number of invited presentations to educational, scientific and public policy organizations in the United States and abroad.

His research has focused on cardiac arrhythmias, the epidemiology of depression and dementia, mental health care in nursing homes, primary care sites and in the community, and novel communications approaches between health care providers. The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, the National Institute on Aging, the Forchheimer Foundation, The New York Foundation for Elder Care, the Resnick Gerontology Center, the New York State Department of Health, United Jewish Appeal-Federation, the JE & ZB Butler Foundation, The University Place Foundation, the Irving Weinstein Foundation, The Goldstein Foundation, The United Hospital Fund, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and The New York Community Trust have supported his work.

He has served as a consultant to the New York State Commission on Life and the Law regarding physician-assisted suicide and to the Law Revision Commission regarding guardianship procedures in New York State's mental health law. He was also a member of the New York State Department of Health Advisory Work Group on Human Subject Research Involving Protected Classes. He has been a member of the American Psychiatric Association's Council on Aging, the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry and was the 2002 President of the American Association for Geriatric Psychiatry. For the National Institute of Mental Health he was a member of the Mental Disorders of Aging Initial Review Group and Chairperson, Small Business Innovative Research Program Contract Reviews. He has also been a member of the Antidepressants and Suicidality Review Panel, and the Interventions Committee for Adult Disorders Review Group. In 2003 he was invited to testify before the President's New Freedom Commission on Mental Health. He is a Fellow of the Brookdale Center on Aging of Hunter College, The New York Academy of Medicine, and The American Psychiatric Association. He has received a New Investigator Award from the National Institute of Health, a travel study fellowship to Israel and the United Kingdom from the United States World Health Organization, an Archstone Award for Program Innovation from the American Public Health Association, an Annual Exemplary Psychiatrists Award, National Alliance for the Mentally Ill. The American Journal of Nursing cited his Geriatric Mental Health Care published in 2000 as one of the best books of the year on gerontology. In 2014 he received the Leo and Julia Forchheimer Foundation Lifetime Achievement Award and in 2019 he became an honoree of the United Jewish Appeal-Federation of New York, Montefiore Health System & Albert Einstein College of Medicine. His most recent book is Geriatric Depression: A Clinical Guide from The Guilford Press, 2015.

He was also the 2005-2007 chair of the Geriatric Mental Health Foundation, a Washington based 501c3 group advocating for the mental health and well being of older Americans. In 2005 he was a Visiting Professor for the Geriatric Fellowship Training Program of the National Health Research Institute of Taiwan. In 2006 he was sponsored by The Atlantic Philanthropies to design a Bermuda specific geriatric mental health training program. In 2009 he was part of a seven person Professional Exchange Program sponsored by the Caring Commission of the United Jewish Appeal-Federation of New York and JDC-ESHEL, The Association for the Planning and Development of Services for the Aged in Israel. He is currently Chair of the Grants Review Committee of the American Association for The Prevention of Suicide and a member of the Paul Beeson Emerging Leaders in Geriatric Research review committee of the NIA. Since 1992 he has been listed as one of "The Best Doctors in America". He has appeared on National Public Radio, the Today Show with Katie Couric, and ABC's

World News Tonight with Diane Sawyer.

Born in Dallas, Dr. Kennedy is an alumnus of the University of Texas in Austin and the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Associate Director Biography

Dr. Alessandra Scalmati is an Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences and Associate Director of the Division of Geriatric Psychiatry and the Fellowship Training Program, Montefiore Medical Center, Albert Einstein College of Medicine. She was born in Italy, where she received an MD and PhD from the University of Modena. She came to New York to perform post doctoral studies at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, where she remained for 18 months, until she started residency training in General Psychiatry at Montefiore Medical Center. At the completion of four years training, she was appointed Administrative Chief Resident (“super chief”). Subsequently she completed fellowship training in Geriatric Psychiatry also at Montefiore. She is Board Certified in General and Geriatric Psychiatry and Psychosomatic Medicine. As the Associate Director of the Fellowship Training Program in Geriatric Psychiatry, she teaches, supervises, maintains an active practice and is engaged in research. She has extensive responsibilities for psychotherapy teaching in the Adult Program and is one of the most sought after supervisors. She is the recipient of grants from the United Jewish Appeal/Federation, The Butler Foundation, the Weinstein Foundation, and The Fan Fox and Lesley Samuels Foundation. Dr Scalmati’s areas of interest include elder mistreatment, long term effects of trauma, psychiatric care of Holocaust Survivors, prevention of burnout among health professionals, and the effectiveness of psychodynamic psychotherapy for older adults. Her publications have focused on cancer and more recently on physician education and psychotherapy in late life.

Assistant Director Biography

Dr. Mirnova Ceïde is an Assistant Professor of Geriatric Psychiatry and Geriatric Medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine/Montefiore Medical Center and the Assistant Program Director of the Geriatric Psychiatry Fellowship. She completed her Adult Psychiatry Training at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, MD where she was Chief Resident. She went on to complete a HRSA Fellowship at SUNY Downstate in Geriatric Psychiatry where she also participated in health disparities research at the Brooklyn Health Disparities Center. Dr. Ceïde is an NHLBI PRIDE Scholar in Behavioral Medicine and Sleep Disorders. She joined the Geriatric Psychiatry Division at Montefiore Medical Center in 2013 where she has held multiple consultative roles in integrated behavioral health programs across the Montefiore Network. Currently she is the Geriatric Psychiatrist for the Montefiore Home Care Agency, and the Center for the Aging Brain. In 2016 she received an NIA Diversity supplement with a focus on the relationship between cognition, gait, personality traits and mood states among older adults. In addition she is a co-investigator on the Fan Fox and Leslie R. Samuels grant Montefiore Geriatric Neurology/Memory Disorders Program: Montefiore Home Care Psychotherapy Program for Depressed, Cognitively Impaired Patients (MHCPP-DCI) and the NYS Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Grant Decreasing Depression and Increasing Social Connectedness Among NYC’s Older Adults. She was awarded a KL2 scholar’s award (mentored research development) from the Harold and Murial Block Institute for Clinical and Translational Research at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine for "The Biological and Structural Correlates of Apathy in Dementia Pathogenesis." Mentors: Drs. Joe Verghese and Gary Kennedy. In 2019 she also completed the Einstein Clinical Research Training Program Masters in Science Program. She has presented regionally and nationally on the topic of behavioral integration.
